Building a Vision for Haiti

The Construction of Victory Village

During a recent visit to Haiti, from August 26 to September 6, Pastor Lorne Davis had the opportunity to see firsthand the progress being made at Victory Village. This is a ministry initiative led by Pastor Julsain Blanc, the apostolic head of Victory Churches in Haiti. Located on approximately ten acres in northern Haiti, near Cap-Haïtien, Victory Village is being developed as a place where pastors can gather for teaching, training, and spiritual development.

The vision for Victory Village is to establish a centre that will support a Bible school and strengthen Victory Churches throughout Haiti. Construction is progressing, with one building completed and another well underway. Building in Haiti requires significant time and effort, as much of the construction is done by hand, making the progress achieved a testament to the dedication and perseverance behind this project.

Pastor Lorne has praised Pastor Julsain's passion, energy, and commitment to building up the Victory family in Haiti. The developing complex represents an important investment in the future of the churches, creating opportunities to equip leaders, deepen biblical understanding, and strengthen ministry across the nation.

Pastor Lorne's report serves as a reminder that Victory Churches International is alive and well in Haiti, with dedicated leaders working faithfully to advance the Gospel. As Dr. George Hill has often said, "What will you find when you get to the ends of the earth? A Victory Church!". Victory Village is a powerful expression of that vision—a place being built not simply with bricks and mortar, but with a heart to raise up leaders and strengthen the Church for generations to come.
